NEW-YORK ELECTION.

READER AND EDITORS.

Reader, Well, Messrs. Editors, the section is gone.

Editors, Yes, completely so—and we believe contrary to the expectation of every body. Even the eastern and western districts, which were considered as decidedly federal, have given democratic majorities. Tompkins is elected by a majority of 5 or 6000; there will be a democratic majority of about 20 in the house of assembly—and democratic senators are chosen in every district.

Reader, How do you account for this? Editors, It is impossible to account for it satisfactorily. The current of public sentiment appeared to be setting in favor of the federalists when the election commenced; but secret means have been employed by the democrats, by which thousands of spurious votes have been obtained, and the true and legitimate voice of the people stifled. Various corrupt, vile and fraudulent tricks have been resorted to at the polls and elsewhere; and acts of violence and outrage have been committed, which have served rather to show the depravity of the age than to prove the freedom and purity of our elections.

Reader, These practices ought to be thoroughly exposed, that the people may be put on their guard in future.

Editors, The people were cautioned on the subject before the election, but it seems, to very little purpose. The democrats found new modes of carrying on their plans, against which no human foresight could guard. We shall take care, however, to make a faithful report of such of the mal practices as come to our knowledge. Power obtained by such means cannot be permanent.

Reader, To what extent have spurious votes been obtained?

Editors, It is difficult to tell. In every town probably from 10 to 20—and in some, 100 or upwards. These spurious votes, we learn, were manufactured in various ways: But the favorite mode has been, to induce worthless fellows to swear in votes on an assignment of a quit-claim deed. This was openly done at Hudson, and justified by the democrats at the poll. From five to ten persons voted on a single quit-claim, assigned over from one to another. One man swore in his votes, who was a pauper, and had lived in the poor-house during the winter. Others, who had recently taken the benefit of the insolvent act, swore they were in possession of real estate worth $70 dollars free of incumbrance, and were of course permitted to vote. One fellow swore in a governor's vote, and was immediately after arrested for stealing a pair of boots. He confessed the theft, and pleaded poverty as his excuse. He was hailed by two of the leading democrats.

Reader, And this practice of making spurious voters, &c. you suppose has been general?

Editors, We have no doubt of it. We have seen a letter from a gentleman in Chenango, stating the following facts: A convict, for petty larceny, was taken out of jail, his fine paid, a deed given him, and his vote sworn in. Five persons sworn in upon the strength of one life lease, the first transferring it to the second, and so on. The writer of this letter gives it as his opinion, that three hundred factious deeds were given in that county.

Reader, Astonishing profligacy! But it appears to me that these means could have operated but partially. Has there not been one great and leading cause connected with these circumstances?

Editors, Yes—These means could not have been sufficient alone to have secured the triumph of democracy. But in our opinion, the personal influence of Gov. Lewis, has effected what nothing else could—the election of Tompkins. Strange as it may appear, the man who ran down Lewis three years ago, now owes his success to the weight of the same Lewis.

Reader, How does this appear?

Editors, Compare the returns of 1807 with those of 1810. In every county where Lewis received the most support when opposed to Tompkins, a very powerful aid has now been given to the latter, when supported by Lewis. Look at Orange for one—and other counties will be found to run in like proportion.

From the Philadelphia Gazette.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT, AT WASHINGTON.

I understand that Col. Duane, or his son, who has been down here, is desirous of serving the public in the office of quarter master general, which was to have been created by a bill originating in the senate. It did not however pass the lower house, for want of time. As Gen. Laib from your state was one of the committee to which the bill was recommended for amendment, it is not impossible that his claims to this office may interfere with those of your respectable colonel.

Some of the late nominations by the president, have been rejected by the senate: among them is one Mr. Wilkinson, a relative to the general, to some appointment in the Orleans or Mississippi territory.

The committee on the conduct of general Wilkinson were violently opposed on the last day of the session, by Roger Nelson, Smilie and Findley, who occupied 3 hours on that day in endeavoring to prevent the report from being read. In this they fortunately failed. Had they succeeded the general probably would have returned to New Orleans (where he has lately married) and by sending in his resignation would have defied further investigation; and endeavored to have sheltered himself under a clamorous outcry against an ungrateful country: a force in which he has been busily engaged ever since his arrival at Washington. The report of the committee is very short, and refers to the documents received by them in evidence without giving an opinion or drawing any inferences; but I understood from one of the committee that the evidence referred to, satisfactorily proves the payment to the general of above 45,000 dollars exclusive of and unconnected with his tobacco and commercial transactions, the original accounts of which are laid before the house, and were ordered with the report to be printed.

Such is the fatality ever attendant on crimes and the consequences of attempting to conceal them, that it now appears that the report of the military court of enquiry, whereof Col. Jonathan Williams and Col. Cushing were members, will of itself be sufficient to establish Wilkinson's criminality; for that report expressly stated, that the general did not receive any money but from his commercial transactions with the Spaniards, and that they were closed in the year 1791, excepting for a quantity of damaged tobacco, of which it is unnecessary to speak of the veracity of the account presented by the general, and accepted by the court as proof of his innocence. But mark the snare, into which this unhappy man has fallen! After the acquittal by the court, composed of his friends; he one day (no doubt by mere accident) walked into the war office, strolled (by accident also) into the secretary's room, and there being nobody present but a clerk (by accident again) bore away in open day and no doubt without permission a bundle of papers containing all the evidence he had produced to the court, with his own defence, and their proceedings in the case! The committee of congress, finding these proceedings necessary in the investigation, and presuming they were in the proper place, applied to the secretary at war for them; when, behold it appeared they had been carried off during the secretaryship of Mr. Dearborn. This fact was substantiated by the affidavit of the clerk, who witnessed, as Mr. Randolph styled it, "this felonious act of the commander in chief"—Mr. Jones, the judge advocate, has likewise testified as to the particular papers delivered by him to the secretary of war, which are now missing.

The committee unable to procure these necessary papers from the war office, and becoming more convinced of their importance by the extraordinary conduct of Wilkinson, issued a subpoena for him to come before them, and produce these papers; they however, could obtain from him neither the spurious accounts passed on the court, nor his own defence; and the only paper which they retained of the five an-important ones which the general and his friends had sworn to produce. The report of the committee is very short, and refers to the documents received by them in evidence without giving an opinion or drawing any inferences; but I understood from one of the committee that the evidence referred to, satisfactorily proves the payment to the general of above 45,000 dollars exclusive of and unconnected with his tobacco and commercial transactions, the original accounts of which are laid before the house, and were ordered with the report to be printed.

The universal indignation excited by the house at these circumstances was only equalled by the feelings produced by the report to the speaker, insinuating that he was ready to appear before a tribunal and answer his innocence, although at the very moment of his writing, he knew a committee was actually sitting to investigate his conduct, before which he had not ventured to appear, without any evidence in his possession.

Although public opinion has long been made up on this subject, the official conduct of Wilkinson can only be ascertained by a session—when the investigation now commenced, must be closed. It is generally supposed he will endeavor to avert his fate by resigning.

When the report and documents are printed, I shall send you copies.

CHARLESTON, May 4.

The schooner Dolphin, capt. Asbury, from Key Sale, was brought to about 8 o'clock yesterday morning, to the north bar, by the French privateer La Revanche du Cap, and while she was in the act of sailing, the Frenchman ran under her stern, and poured a volley of musquetry into her; which all the officers, passengers and crew of the Dolphin were upon deck, and the vessel within half pistol shot of each other: Fortunately one shot only took effect, which pierced and broke the arm of Mr. Foley, a passenger on board. After committing this unpardonable and wanton attack upon a defenceless vessel, they told captain Asbury to go about her business.

The Dolphin belongs to this port, and has only been absent twenty days on her present voyage; she was perfectly well known to the officers of the privateer, they having been frequently on board her, while the vessels lay near to each other at Galveston's wharf, before the Dolphin sailed on her present voyage.

FOR SALE.

At the town of Occoquan, on the 28th day of May next, at Public auction.

That valuable MILL SEAT.

late the property of Elias Janney, SITUATE in the said town of Occoquan. On this seat was erected, about eleven years ago, a spacious three story BRICK MILL HOUSE, which ever since has been occupied as a manufacturing mill, until about twelve months ago it was destroyed by fire—the stones and blocks of the former walls, and the iron work of the building are upon the spot, and would answer for a new mill, which might with these aids, be erected in time to grind the growing crop of wheat. The advantages appertaining to this valuable property, which in the driest season never wants water, being furnished by the Occoquan river, are so generally known as not to need a particular enumeration; suffice it to state, that it is situated in a healthy and flourishing little town at the Falls of the river, about 16 miles south of Alexandria, on the great stage road, leading north and south—in the heart of a wheat country—and has navigable water to the mill door, where vessels may come of sufficient burthen to carry 500 barrels of flour. With this valuable seat for water works of any description, there may be had about 250 acres of well timbered land, lying on the opposite side of the river. For this property one tenth of the purchase money will be required in hand, and the residue in three equal annual payments, with interest from the day of sale.

GENUINE MEDICINES

DR. JAMES MICHAELSON, JR., OF N. YORK.
As prepared from the original recipe in possession of the subscriber, his wisdom by which they are prepared and without whose signature none are genuine.

Coughs, Colds, Asthma, &c.

Are immediately relieved and speedily cured by the use of

HAMILTON'S ELIXIR FOR COUGHS.

DEAR bought experience has taught thousands that only and honest medicines, joined with strong opiates or sleep drugs, repeated doses of which latter and deprive the patient of the present, by procuring momentary ease; experience, I say, has taught thousands that the common opiates and balneums, as they are called, finally aggravate every disorder of the breast and lungs, in their most distressing symptoms, that they load the stomach and impair the digestion, inflame the whole system, increase the difficulty of breathing and excite fever. But the qualities of this valuable discovery are evinced by perfectly opposite effects. A single trial will prove, that it restores the determination of the fluids to the surface of the body, and brings on the common healthy perspiration—that it dislodges and evacuates the tough, rigid phlegm or mucus, strengthens the weakened vessels of the lungs, abates the acrimonious humor which irritates them, and finally discharges it. Thus striking at the root of the disorder, the symptoms are of course effectually and permanently conquered, the reverse of common medicines, which weaken the constitution and give strength to the disorder for the sake of moderating for the present some of its painful effects.

To parents who have children afflicted with the whooping cough, this discovery is of the first magnitude, as it affords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorder to which children are liable. The Elixir is so perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small that no difficulty arises in taking it.

Selected Recommendations.

Being desirous to make public for the good of others, the excellent quality of Hamilton's Elixir, prepared by the late Mr. Lee, I have sent you the following account of the benefit I have received from it; which I hope will induce others to give it a trial. In consequence of a bruise on the breast received from a fall, my health grew bad, my breathing became very difficult, and frequently I have had suddenly to rise up in my bed with all the horrors of immediate suffocation. Add to these a constant pain in my breast, and a cough, a great loss of strength & flesh, and you may conceive that my symptoms evidently indicated an approaching consumption. The advice of a most eminent physician was resorted to, and afterwards a second was called in, but without giving me any relief. Another physician who knew me and the circumstances of my case, advised me to give Hamilton's Elixir a trial, saying he had used it in his practice and always found it to do much good. A bottle was procured from Mr. Birch's, and I found relief before I had taken half of it. I continued to use it as was soon strong to attend to business. On taking cold, some of my former symptoms return, but are always removed by a dose or two of the Elixir.

George Benner, jun.

no. 11, Budd street, Philadelphia.
Mrs. H. Lee, New York.

Mr. Abijah Healy, Bridge street, Baltimore, was cured by one bottle of Hamilton's Elixir of a very complicated disorder, occasioned by a very severe cold caught several months ago. He breathed with the greatest difficulty, and was often thrown into weakness and sweats when he attempted to walk any distance, and his voice would frequently fail in such a degree that he could only attempt to whisper. He has been upwards of six weeks without a return of his complaints, and desires to give his public testimony in favor of this valuable medicine.

Rich Cured.

By once using Lee's Sovereign Ointment. The proprietor informs those persons and families who are suffering under this disease against the infection of which no person is safe, that if this ointment is used at night on going to bed it never fails to perform a cure by the following morning, as thousands who have used it during the last ten years can testify. The peculiar excellencies of this infallible remedy for the itch, above every other, are the certainty of the cure by a single application, the ingredients being composed of the most delicate and most efficacious substances, and applied with perfect safety to the tenderest infants, and its being not only free from any offensive smell, but equally agreeable to the most delicate persons.

Dr. Hamilton's Grand Restorative.
Which the subscriber confidently recommends as a valuable medicine for the speedy relief, and permanent cure of various disorders which nearly 2000 persons in various parts of the world have been cured by its use. It is a certain and infallible remedy for any destructive humors, the most full and frequent use of mercury, the disease peculiar to females at a certain period of life, and in general, &c.

HAMILTON'S CELEBRATED WORM DESTROYING LOZENGES.

Among the symptoms attending Worms are, disagreeable breath, especially in the morning—bad and corrupt gums—itching in the nose, and about the seat—cervical, epiploic fits, and sometimes a profusion of sweat—irregular appetite, sometimes fasting food and sometimes voracity—purgings with dirty and foetid stools—vomiting—large and hard belly—pains and sickness at the stomach—pains in the head and thighs, with tumours of spleen—stomach fever, with small and irregular pulse—a dry cough—extensive thirst—sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and washed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms, should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges which have been constantly attended with success in all complaints similar to those above described.

A NEW NOVEL.

Just Published, and for Sale by

COTTOM & STEWART,

Price 1 Dollar.

GLENCARN;

OR THE DISAPPOINTMENT OF YOUTH.

A NOVEL.

By GEORGE WATKINSON, Esq.

OF WASHINGTON CITY,

Author of the Lawyer and Child of Feeling.

The celebrity of this author's "LAWYER," and "CHILD OF FEELING" in duces the publishers to engage in this work, and without detracting from the merits of the former, feel themselves justified in stating that his GLENCARN is superior to either. It is submitted without further recommendation, with a wish, that the American reviewers may give further encouragement to this young gentleman's endeavors to entertain, instruct and moralize his fellow citizens, in a way seemingly well calculated to attract their attention.
